Statement on Responsible Business Alliance Code of Conduct

The Responsible Business Alliance ("RBA"), formerly known as the Electronic Industry Citizenship Coalition, is comprised of numerous multi-national companies such as Intel, Apple, Applied Materials, Microsoft, Philips, Texas Instruments, and IBM. These companies are committed to supporting the rights and wellbeing of workers and communities worldwide that are affected by the global electronics supply chain, and to promote responsible and sustainable corporate conduct, including through the adoption of a standard Code of Conduct (the "RBA Code").

The RBA Code sets standards for sustainable performance across a range of company practices, including labor, health & safety, environment, business integrity, anti-corruption, intellectual property, responsible sourcing of minerals, and freely chosen employment. The RBA Code is widely accepted as the industry standard for social accountability in the electronics sector.

FormFactor embraces the RBA vision of a global electronics industry that creates sustainable value for workers, the environment and business. Accordingly, FormFactor endorses the RBA Code and aligns with customers and partners in this commitment.
